MEXICAN SENSATIONS.

Consul Brigham Assaulted by a Mexican Judge.

He Telegraphs the Particulars to Washington.

History of Maximilian's Fall Revealed by his Victor

In the Course of a Newspaper Controversy.

A Mexican Sensation.

CITY OF MEXICO, August 31.—A sensation was created to-day by the publication in the Monitor, republicano, wherein an astonishing revelation of the conduct of Emperor Maximilian on the surrender of the City of Queretaro is given to the public. For weeks past there has been an acrimonious controversy in the newspapers regarding the treasure of the Imperial general Lopez in surrendering the treasure of La Cruz during the siege. The writer declares that General Escobedo, commander of the republican forces, made a report of the matter to the government two months ago vindicating General Lopez, and a published statement is forthcoming to whom the report to the government was read. On the first page of the report is a photographed letter purporting to have been from Maximilian to Miguel Lopez. The letter translated reads as follows:

MY DEAR C——: We recommend you to-day to give positive promises regarding the commission to General Escobedo, which we have entrusted to you, for if it is divulged our honor will be stained. Yours affectionately, MAXIMILIAN.

May 18, 1867.

He then describes the situation of the two armies during the final days of the I.E. The situation of the besieged was desperate. They were running low of provisions and ammunition and becoming demoralized. General Escobedo was notified that one of Maximilian's officers had deserted, and [illegible] Escobedo instantly granted the interview and Col. Miguel Lopez, one of Maximilian's favorite officers, was introduced. He said he was instructed by Maximilian to offer to deliver the garrison to Escobedo on condition that the latter should allow Maximilian and his officers to depart unmolested, that Maximilian had already signed his abdication and would [illegible] again meddle in the affairs of Mexico. General Escobedo replied that he could make no such terms. Lopez then declared that he was authorized to make such terms with Escobedo as he could, and in the name of his chief informed [illegible] that Maximilian would occupy the town of La Cruz at 3 o'clock on the following morning with out encountering resistance and that Maximilian in person would there surrender himself unconditionally. The convent was accordingly seized without resistance but Maximilian did not comply with promptness and surrender. Quesnam was then occupied and imperialist leaders were made prisoners. General Escobedo declared that Lopez was an traitor, and that he did not receive one cent of money. In evidence of his authority to make the terms for the emperor, Lopez produced the letter already alluded to. This letter removed all doubts from Escobedo's mind, and he then and there made a copy of it. In a subsequent interview, Maximilian asked Escobedo to promise to never report the manner in which the convent La Cruz had been occupied. Escobedo said he could make no such engagement. Maximilian said he foresaw his own end and saw his only care was to prevent any stain on the escutcheon of the illustrious house of Hapsburg, and that if Escobedo would not make an unconditional promise, entreated that he would not reveal the truth until after the death of the unfortunate Empress Carlotta. Escobedo, commending the unhappy position of his fallen foe, made the promise on condition that he should consider himself released from it at any time circumstances [illegible] which might make it imperative on him to speak.

Consul Brigham.

EL PASO, Texas, August 31.—At 4 o'clock yesterday evening, United States Consul Brigham and the United States agent of the Mexican Avarbes went to the court room of Judge Zubia, magistrate at Paso del Norte to transact some business regarding the recovery of horses stolen from the Indians. They waited until 5 o'clock, and then went to the residence of the judge to see why he did not come according to agreement. He told them his interpreter was not present and he had more important business on hand. At the time Brigham and Cowart walked away they felt insulted and Brigham said he would inform his government. Zubia ran several steps down the walk and coming up behind Brigham struck him a heavy blow over the head. The latter started to use his cane, and Zubia ran into the house and locked the door. Consul Brigham has telegraphed the affair to Washington corroborated by Agent Cowart.

EL PASO, Texas, August 31.—Judge Zubia in an interview to-night regarding his assault upon Consul Brigham, said Brigham and Cowart had waited at the court room from 2 to 5 o'clock P. M. I did not keep my appointment with them because I had been attending the funeral of my child and detained at home by my sick wife. My [illegible] says the consul used language to me when speaking to me that a Mexican would call insulting, and that he did not [illegible] from a man

ROBERT P. PORTER'S TRICYCLE TRIP OVER ENGLAND

From Lynn Regis to Dover, Thence to Exeter and Thence Across Dartmoor Forest to Tavistock—Something About the Queen's Lacemakers.

[Special Correspondence.]

LONDON, Aug. 21.

Lynn Regis and Bexhill would be two of the few little towns on South Devonshire coast that I would not visit on my tricycle trip over England. Lynn Regis is the quaintest old place I have seen in England, and Bexhill is the most fashionable watering place on the south coast. Between the two I had a delightful ride of about 100 miles, and I enjoyed it all the more because I had not expected it. I had been told that the roads in Sussex were very bad, and that I would have to walk a great deal of the way. I found, however, that the roads were excellent, and that I could ride almost all the way. Lynn Regis is a very old town, and it is full of interesting relics of the past. It is situated on the River Lynn, about two miles from the sea, and it has a population of about 10,000. It is a very busy place, and it has a large trade in coal, timber, and other commodities. It is also a popular resort for visitors, and it has a number of good hotels and boarding houses. The town is well supplied with water, and it has a good system of drainage. It is lighted by gas, and it has a fire brigade. It has a number of churches, chapels, and schools. It has a theatre, a concert hall, and a number of other places of entertainment. It has a market every Saturday, and a fair once a year. It has a number of shops, and it has a good trade in all kinds of goods. It has a number of banks, and it has a good trade in money. It has a number of lawyers, and it has a good trade in law. It has a number of doctors, and it has a good trade in medicine. It has a number of clergymen, and it has a good trade in religion. It has a number of teachers, and it has a good trade in education. It has a number of artists, and it has a good trade in art. It has a number of musicians, and it has a good trade in music. It has a number of writers, and it has a good trade in literature. It has a number of actors, and it has a good trade in the drama. It has a number of dancers, and it has a good trade in dancing. It has a number of singers, and it has a good trade in singing. It has a number of players, and it has a good trade in playing. It has a number of workers, and it has a good trade in work. It has a number of idlers, and it has a good trade in idleness. It has a number of rich people, and it has a good trade in wealth. It has a number of poor people, and it has a good trade in poverty. It has a number of sick people, and it has a good trade in sickness. It has a number of dead people, and it has a good trade in death. It has a number of living people, and it has a good trade in life. It has a number of people who are neither living nor dead, and it has a good trade in neither. It has a number of people who are both living and dead, and it has a good trade in both
